FINISH THE SHIELD

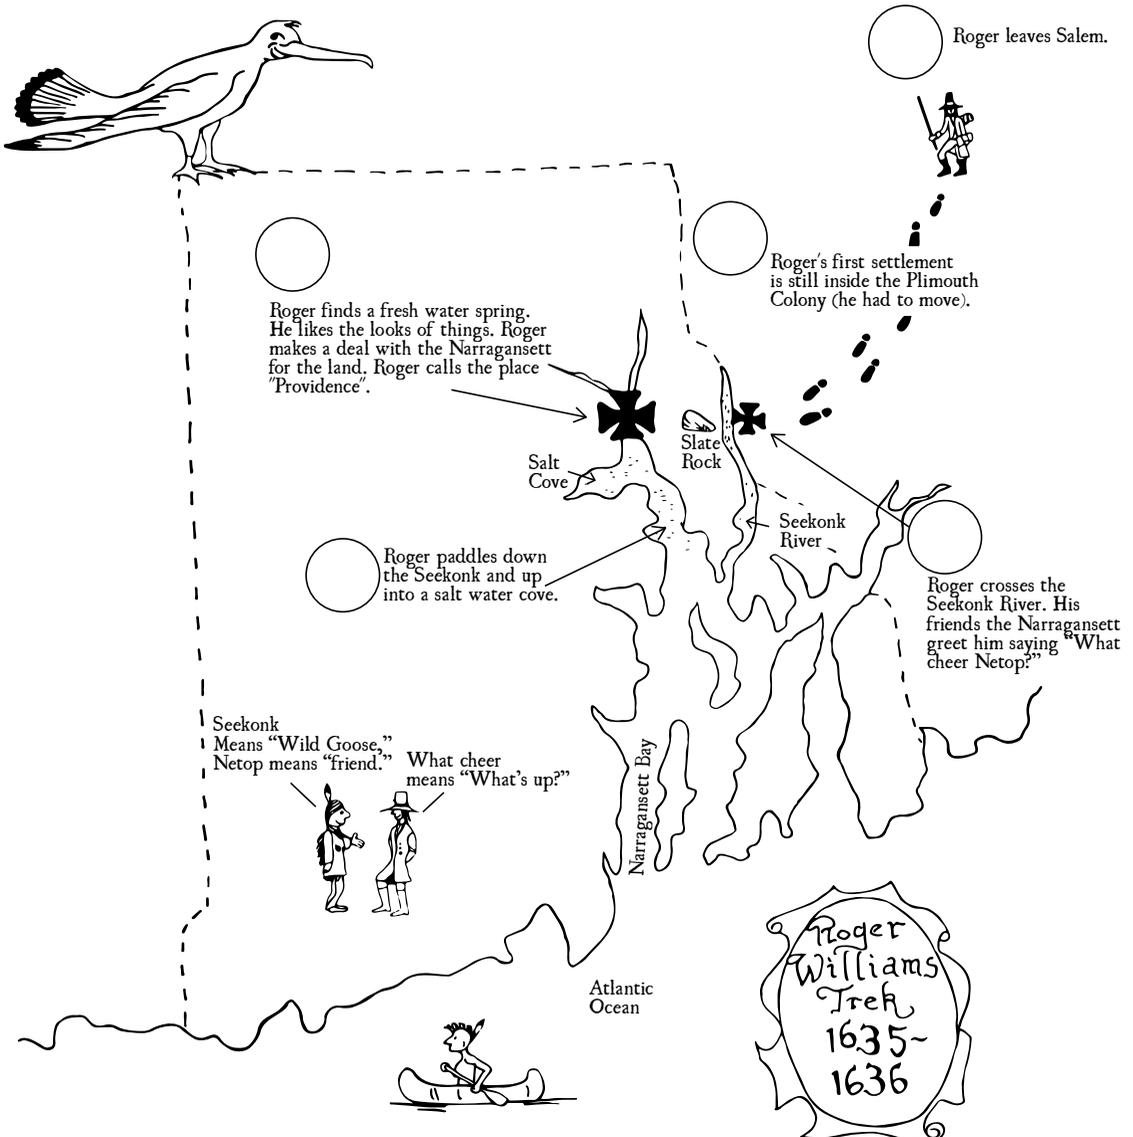

Find a shield in the park and finish drawing the incomplete one shown below.

The National Park Service preserves and protects very special places. Yellowstone, Grand Canyon and Statue of Liberty are a few of the more famous national parks. However, the National Park Service is very diverse and also includes the birthplaces of famous people, significant battlefields, and sites commemorating special events from our nation's history.

ROGER WILLIAMS VIDEO

Watch the 5 minute video and sequence the places Roger visited on the map in chronological order.

KEY INTO LANGUAGE

Roger Williams was a friend of the Native Americans, especially the Narragansetts and the Wampanoags. Roger treated them fairly and learned to speak their language. He even wrote a book on the Native American culture called A Key into the Language of America.

Draw a line between the Narragansett word in the first column to the English word that you think matches it in the second column.

HOUSES

Wetus (wee-toos) were the homes that the Native Americans lived in. They sheltered one or two families. They were 10 to 16 feet in diameter and 6 to 8 feet tall. The frame was made of saplings and the outside was covered in mats made from reeds or bark.

Look at the picture of the wetus. Why do you think the Mat is open on the roof?

Roger lived in a house that looked like the one in this picture. Why do you think it was called a Stone Ender?

LETTER TO JOSEPH WILLIAMS

In Roger Williams' time, letters were one of the few ways to communicate. Much of what we know about Roger comes from his letters.

Joseph, Roger's youngest son, lived in Providence with his parents and five brothers and sisters. When he was an adult, he raised his family on a farm where Roger Williams Park and Zoo is today.

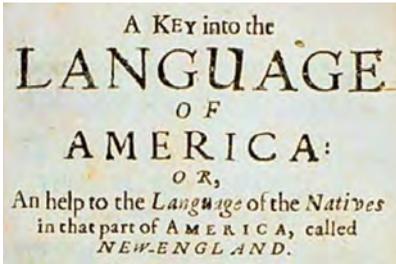

Write a letter to Joseph telling him what you have learned about his father.

ROGER'S POEM

This poem was printed in The Key into the Language of America in 1642. What is Roger saying in this poem? Put his message into your own words.

“Boast not proud English, of thy birth & blood,
Thy brother Indian as by birth is Good.
Of one blood God made Him, and Thee & All
As wise, as faire, as strong, as personall.”

NATIONAL PARK SERVICE

Roger Williams National Memorial was established by Congress in 1965 to help people learn about Roger Williams, his ideas about religious freedom, and the founding of Providence. The memorial is one of over 400 units in the National Park Service system which spans all 50 U.S. states and territories such as Puerto Rico and American Samoa.

Out of more than 400 units of the National Park Service, how many have you visited?

On the map below, color in the states in which you have visited a national park.

The cover image is a modern painting of what the town of Providence may have looked like around the year 1650. Artist Jean Blackburn worked with NPS Rangers and examined historical maps and drawings of the settlement to come up with this depiction of Roger William's town.
